ACTIVISION PUBLISHING, INC., Plaintiff,

v.

RYAN J. ROTHHOLZ, Defendant.

Case No. 2:25-cv-04075-SPG-BFM

DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO DISMISS FOR LACK OF PERSONAL JURISDICTION AND IMPROPER VENUE

Defendant Ryan J. Rothholz, appearing pro se, respectfully moves this Court to dismiss this action pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 12(b)(2) and 12(b)(3) for lack of personal jurisdiction and improper venue. This motion is based on the following memorandum of points and authorities, the record in this case, and such further matters as the Court may consider.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. INTRODUCTION

Defendant is a resident of Nashville, Tennessee, and has no meaningful contacts with California. He has not directed conduct toward the state of California, entered into contracts there, or otherwise purposefully availed himself of its laws. Forcing Defendant to litigate in California would be unjust, particularly given his limited resources and pro se status.

II. LACK OF PERSONAL JURISDICTION

Under the Supreme Court's holding in Daimler AG v. Bauman, 571 U.S. 117 (2014), general jurisdiction is only proper where the defendant is 'essentially at home.' That place is Tennessee, not California. See also Goodyear Dunlop Tires Operations, S.A. v. Brown, 564 U.S. 915 (2011) (holding that a defendant is subject to general jurisdiction only where it is 'at home').

Further, specific jurisdiction under Bristol-Myers Squibb Co. v. Superior Court, 582 U.S. 255 (2017), requires a clear connection between the forum and the specific claims at issue. Here, Plaintiff has failed to show such a connection. The mere fact that Plaintiff is located in California is not enough. See Walden v. Fiore, 571 U.S. 277 (2014).

III. IMPROPER VENUE

Venue is improper under 28 U.S.C. § 1331(b), which provides that a case must be filed in a district where a substantial part of the events giving rise to the claim occurred, or where the defendant resides if no such district exists. As in Leroy v. Great Western United Corp., 443 U.S. 173 (1979), venue rules are meant to protect defendants from being hauled into distant and inconvenient forums.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Defendant respectfully requests that this Court dismiss the action for lack of personal jurisdiction and improper venue.

Respectfully submitted,

Ryan J. Rothholz
